Ganesh Chaturthi is a festival which is celebrated all over India to worship Lord Ganesh, is becoming more eco-friendly nowadays. Generally, Ganesh murtis are made of Plaster of Paris, are immersed in water after Ganesh Chaturthi, which harms the water bodies. Many of the people are practicing the eco-friendly Idol during Ganesh Chaturthi.

Eco-friendly Ganesh Murtis are made of organic soil/mud, natural colors. Why should you use eco-friendly Ganesh idols? Being responsible citizens we can accomplish something for our environment Plaster of Paris is non-biodegradable made of poisons and unsafe colors and it severely pollutes the sea-going life and water bodies. To spare and secure our nature, we should hold hands and do our bit, and go for eco-friendly items.

On 30.08.2022 from our college 50 students have participated in the Matti ganapathi rally held at Ghatkesar bustop and they talked about all the uses of Eco Friendly Ganesha.

① * Answer the following questions:

1. Write about the properties of alpha, gamma and beta radiations?

Ans - Alpha particles, beta particles and gamma rays all originate from the nucleus of a radioisotope. A particle property of ionising radiations is its ability to ionise atoms. That is, this type of radiation can cause an electrically neutral atom to lose an electron, the atom becomes charged, and we call it an ion. In the cells of living animals, ionising radiation can create ions that are chemically reactive, which can lead to the damage or destruction of cells. Short term harmful effects are called Somatic effects and long term hereditary affects are called 'genetic'.

Alpha particles :-
Alpha particles radiation consists of two neutrons and two protons, as they are charged they are affected by both electric and magnetic fields. The speed of

The  $\alpha$ -particle depends very much on the source, but typically are about 10% of the speed of light.

The capacity of the  $\alpha$ -particle to penetrate materials is not very great, it usually penetrates no more than a few centimetres in air and is absorbed by a relatively small thickness of paper or human skin. However, because of their speed and size, they are capable of ionising a large number of atoms over a very short range of penetration. This makes them relatively harmless for most sources that are about a metre or more away, as the radiation is extremely dangerous.

Beta particles:

Beta particle radiation consists of fast moving electrons. Every  $\beta$ -particle carries either one negative or one positive electron charge ( $\pm 1.6 \times 10^{-19}$  Coulomb; etc). They are affected by electric and magnetic fields. The speed depends on the source, but it can be up to 90% of the speed of light.

$\beta$  particles can penetrate up to 3m of air. They are stopped by a few millimetres of aluminium or paper. Their ionising capacity is much less than that of  $\alpha$ -radiation. They are very dangerous if ingested.

Gamma rays:-
Gamma radiation does not consist of charged particles, it is a form of very short wavelength electromagnetic energy. They travel at the speed of light ( $3 \times 10^8$  m/s).

Gamma radiation is very difficult to stop, it takes up to 30mm of lead. Although the ionising capacity of  $\gamma$  radiation is considerably smaller than that of beta radiation, their high penetration power means that they are dangerous even at a distance. They can penetrate our bodies and hit sensitive organs. They are particularly dangerous if ingested or inhaled.
