PROGRAM REPORT

Program name: Awareness program on 'Avoid Plastic'.

Date: 13.12.2023

Venue: Kondapur Village.

Agency involved: College NSS Unit.

Students participated: 27 members.

Plastics are non-biodegradable. Once introduced into the environment, they take several years to decompose. Plastics cause environmental pollution. They cannot be burnt as when burnt, they release poisonous gases. Every day, the equivalent of 2,000 garbage trucks full of plastic are dumped into the world's oceans, rivers, and lakes. Plastic pollution is a global problem. Every year 19-23 million tonnes of plastic waste leaks into aquatic ecosystems, polluting lakes, rivers and seas. Plastic sticks around in the environment for ages, threatening wildlife and spreading toxins. Plastic also contributes to global warming. Almost all plastics are made from chemicals that come from the production of planet-warming fuels (gas, oil and even coal). Therefore, there is a need to bring an awareness regarding the drawbacks of plastic usage in the people of the society.

The NSS unit of Samskruti College of Pharmacy has organized an awareness program on 'Avoid Plastic' with the help of its students and staff members in the Kondapur village on 13th December 2023 to bring an awareness regarding the drawbacks of plastic usage and the importance of avoiding its usage in the people of the village. The people of the village cooperated and supported in successful conduction of this program.

Write in detail about Translation (or) protein synthesis and inhibitor.

The genetic information stored in DNA is passed on to RNA and ultimately expressed in the language of proteins. The biosynthesis of a protein/a poly peptide in a living cell is referred to as translation.

The term translation of four letter language information from nucleic acid (DNA and then RNA) to 20 letter language of proteins.

- Variability of cells in Translation
- There are wide variations in the cells with respect to the quality and quantity of protein synthesized.
 - The largely depends on the need and ability of the cells.
 - Erythrocytes (red blood cells) lack the machinery for translation and therefore cannot synthesize proteins.
 - The normal liver cells are very rich in the protein biosynthetic machinery and thus the liver may be regarded as the protein factory in the human body.

Protein Biosynthesis

The protein synthesis which involves the translation of nucleotides base sequence of mRNA into the language of amino acids sequence may be divided into the following stages for the convenience of understanding.

- I. Requirement of the components.
- II. Activation of amino acids.
- III. Chaperones and protein folding.
- IV. Post-translational modification.

I. Requirement of the components

The protein synthesis may be considered as a bio-chemical factory operating on the ribosomes. As a factory is dependent on the supply of raw materials to give a final product the protein synthesis also require many components.

Amino acids

Proteins are polymers of amino acids of the 20 amino acids found in proteins. Synthesis half of them (10) can be synthesized by man. About 10 essential amino acids have to be provided through the diet.

Ribosomes

The functionally active ribosomes are the center (or) factories for protein synthesis. Ribosomes may also be considered as work benches of translation. Ribosomes are huge complex structure of proteins and ribosomal RNA. Each ribosome consists of 2 sub-units one big & one small.

Messenger RNA (mRNA)

The specific information required for the synthesis of a given protein is present on RNA. The DNA has passed on the genetic information in the form of codon to mRNA.

Transfer RNAs (tRNA)

They carry the amino acids and hand them over to the growing peptide acids and hand the amino acids is covalently bound to tRNA at 3' end. Each tRNA has a three nucleotide base sequence - the anticodon.

Principal

Energy Sources

Both ATP & GTP are required for the supply of energy in protein synthesis. Some of the reactions involve the break down of ATP/GTP respectively to AMP and GMP with the liberation of pyrophosphate.

Protein factors

The process of translation involves a number of protein factors. The protein factors are more complex in Eukaryotes compared to prokaryotes.

II Activation of Amino acids :-

Amino acids are activated and attached to tRNAs in two step reaction. A group of enzymes namely amino acyl-tRNA synthetase are required for this process. These enzymes are highly specific for amino acid and the corresponding tRNA.

III Protein Synthesis proper

The protein/polypeptide synthesis occurs on the ribosomes. The mRNA is read in the 5 → 3 direction and the polypeptide synthesis proceeds from N terminal end to C-terminal end.

INITIATION OF TRANSLATION

The initiation of translation in Eukaryotes is complex involving at least ten eukaryotic initiation factor (eIFs) some of the eIFs contain multiple (5-8) subunits. The process of translation initiation can be divided into 4 steps

1. Ribosomal dissociation
2. Formation of 43S preinitiation complex
3. Formation of 48S initiation complex
4. Formation of 80S initiation complex

Ribosomal dissociation

The 80S ribosome dissociates to form 40S and 60S sub units. Two initiating factors namely eIF-3 and eIF-1A bind to the newly formed 40S subunit.
