OBJECTIVES

The overall objective of preventive medicine is to ensure the elimination of disease, either by preventing the opportunities for disease occurrence or by halting a disease and mitigating complications after its onset. This starts as early as infancy, ensuring frequent screenings for occult disease that can be intervened upon as soon as possible and preventing complications such as nutritional deficiencies and visual deficits.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Establishing a report with adolescent populations
- Continuing that relationship into adulthood
- Screening for cancers should be completed on a regular basis
- Clinically indicated labs should be drawn to prevent progression of diseases like hypercholesterolemia and diabetes.

Program Name: A certificate programme on pharmacovigilance

Duration : 30 hrs

A.Y:2022 to 2023

OBJECTIVES

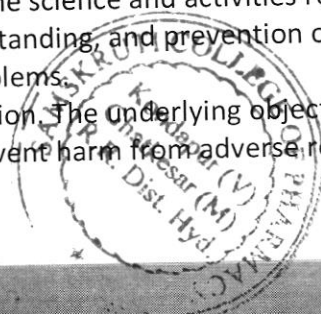

The vision of pharmacovigilance is to improve patient safety and welfare in Indian population by monitoring drug safety and thereby reducing the risk associated with use of medicines. The ultimate safety decision on medicines may need consideration of comparative benefit/risk evaluation between products for similar indications .

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Discuss the roles and related mechanisms in terms of pharmacokinetic factors.
- Define the importance of pharmacovigilance
- Express impact of the dose.
- It acquires knowledge that the purpose of the pharmacovigilance activities is to preserve human health.
- Discuss the relationship between adverse drug reactions and mechanism of actions of drugs.
- Define the properties of receptors on drugs action.
- Define the post receptor mechanisms.
- Summarize the roles and properties of cytochrome enzymes on adverse drug reactions.
- Describe where the adverse reaction Notification form will be delivered .
- Discuss the important adverse drug reactions on the pharmacokinetic and pharmacodynamic mechanisms
- Define the important adverse drug reactions on the system like nervous, immune, cardiovascular and digestive system.
- Summarize importance of adverse drug reactions on drug actions and use.

Summary:

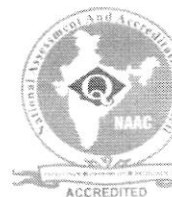

Pharmacovigilance refers to the science and activities relating to the detection, assessment understanding, and prevention of adverse effects and other drug-related safety problems. Related to this general definition, the underlying objectives of pharmacovigilance are to prevent harm from adverse reactions in humans that arise from the use of health products within or outside the terms of marketing authorization and in relation to the life cycle of these health products to patients, health – care professionals, and the public pharmacovigilance is therefore an activity contributing to the protection of patients and maintaining public health.

Many other issues are also of relevance to pharmacovigilance related activities and include medication errors, lack of efficacy reports, off-label use, acute and chronic poisoning, assessment of drug-related mortality, abuse and misuse of health products, and adverse interactions of medicines with chemicals and other drugs. The pharmacovigilance approach interactions of medicines with chemicals and other drugs. The pharmacovigilance approach can be clinical, epidemiological, experimental (e.g., to reproduce an adverse effect in animals to better understand the mechanism involved for human protection) or diagnostic (e.g., imputable method) The ultimate goal of pharmacovigilance is to accurately characterize and optimize the benefit/risk ratio of a health product throughout its life cycle.

OBJECTIVES

The overall objective of preventive medicine is to ensure the elimination of disease ,either by preventing the opportunities for disease occurrence or by halting a disease and mitigating complications after its onset. This starts as early as infancy, ensuring frequent screenings for occult disease that can be intervened upon as soon as possible and preventing complications such as nutritional deficiencies and visual deficits.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Establishing a report with adolescent populations
- Continuing that relationship into adulthood
- Screening for cancers should be completed on a regular basis
- Clinically indicated labs should be drawn to prevent progression of diseases like hypercholesterolemia and diabetes.
